

Happy Holidays from Rebedew Ranch

2017

Hard to believe that it has been another year already. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Our biggest news is that I am pregnant! I'm due in May 2018.

Work continues to go well. I am working in pediatrics in Monroe and New Glarus. David's position has been evolving, he is now core faculty for the residency program, which means he gets to do more teaching. He is also doing more emergency department shifts. This fall we went to many of the New Glarus-Monticello High School football games as the team doctors.

Early in 2017 we traveled to San Diego for a conference together. We stayed a few extra days and went to the Zoo and Safari Park.

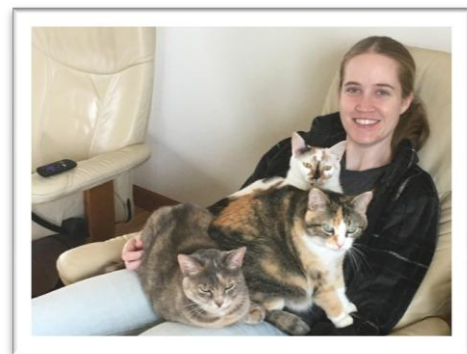

Loki and Sonny continue to get along beautifully, and I'm still loving having horses in my backyard.

This fall we took some time off together to go on a little vacation to Madeline Island. It was beautiful. We went on a few guided tours, including kayaking through the sea caves and boating to a few of the Apostle Islands to see several of the lighthouses. We also stopped at a few places on the way up and the way home. We didn't know it at the time, but our little one was with us on that vacation.

Our kitties are continuing to do well. They like to snuggle with us and with each other. Chloe, Pearl, and Tink are in the photo below. Stripey is in the top photo.

With love,
~Katie, David, & The Critters
